FRENCH KNOCK RADIO BERLIN OFF THE AIR

Towers of Soviet-Controlled Station in German Capital Razed Because of Menace to Flying

END TO CONTROVERSY

Berlin, Dec. 16—(AP)—The French destroyed the towers of the Soviet-controlled Berlin radio today. Authorities of the French sector, where the structures were located, said the towers were dangerous to western aircraft planes. The radio station was observing a brief pause in its schedule when the towers were dynamited. It was due to resume program shortly afterward, but late in the day the station was still off the air.

Berliners could, if they wished, tune in to the fainter program of the Soviet-controlled Deutschlandsender, but five hours after the demolition, of which Radio Berlin had been warned almost a month in advance, Deutschlandsender still ignored it.

While western-licensed afternoon newspapers splashed the story, Deutschlandsender transmitted Christmas carols. Berlin radio officials refused to comment on the demolition.

Brig. Gen. Ganeval, French military commander in Berlin, said he was compelled to order French troops to destroy the towers because there was a "very great danger" to aircraft planes coming in by radar to the new Tegel Field in the French sector. The towers were near the field.

The French commander said he had notified the Berlin radio station management on Nov. 20 that the demolition would take place today in order to allow the management time to arrange new installations in another sector. He said the demolition took place without incident.

German postal authorities said the French not only blew up the radio towers, but also the control installations for the towers. Demolishing the towers climaxed a long four-power dispute over Radio Berlin.

The radio station itself is located in the British sector. The Russians had been warned in advance of the demolition.

When the western powers came to Berlin the Russians insisted they retain control of the radio station, saying it was their only broadcast outlet to the Soviet zone.

Today's French action came as a surprise to many, although the French communiqué said Berlin radio had been warned in advance.

In his statement Ganeval said that since Tegel airfield began operating at full capacity under the lift planes have been coming and going under all weather conditions.

"Now radar is working," Ganeval said, "x x x but since the planes are flying without visibility, the two large towers of Radio Berlin x x x which stand in the immediate vicinity constitute a very great danger for all lift planes. I could no longer accept responsibility for possible accidents. Consequently I executed today a decision taken some time ago to demolish the towers."

Programs for both Russian stations originate in the Soviet-controlled radio building in the British sector.

CRUDE PRODUCTION IN FIELD FALLS OFF

Bradford, Dec. 16—(AP)—Crude oil production in the Bradford and Allegheny fields, already falling rapidly, took another dive last week after announcement of a 50-cent advance in prices.

The Bradford field was down an average of 2,208 barrels a day, cutting production to 29,751 barrels a day. In the adjacent Allegheny field, production fell 950 barrels a day to 9,352.

Hoover Commission Reports National Defense Machinery Is In Need of Overhauling

Washington, Dec. 16—(AP)—This country's national defense system is "enormously" costly and its machinery needs overhauling, a Hoover commission "task force" reported today.

A 211-page critique said the unified military establishment set up by law last year "is, on the whole, soundly constructed, but is not yet working well."

A 14-member advisory committee to the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, cautioned that Russian strategy may be to keep American defense costs mounting in an effort to gain "victory by bankruptcy."

The committee recommended this six-point program to hold dollar outlays within bounds and improve the operations of the security setup:

1. Give the secretary of defense more direct control over the three armed forces because his present "difficulties lie in vague authority."
2. Take steps to assure a "fuller measure of teamwork" among the offices and services which compose the national military establishment and the top-level national security organization.
3. Overhaul the military budget system because the "military services are far too prodigal with government funds."
4. Relate scientific research more closely to strategic planning. The failure to have war planning geared to feasible scientific developments was said to constitute "one of the most glaring deficiencies in the whole panorama of the national organization."
5. Speed up plans for civilian mobilization in case of war, including economic, industrial and manpower mobilization. In another section, the committee said the condition of the nation's stockpile of strategic materials needed for a war is "deplorable."
6. Make adequate provision for use of and protection against "unconventional means of warfare." This includes "not only the atom bomb, but the other radiological and biological and chemical weapons—that have appeared, definitely and publicly, upon the horizon of warfare."

The committee exposed some skeletons in the military closet.

The plan, a two-engine DC-3, was en route from Bogota to Barranquilla. It carried a crew of four and 26 passengers. Two stewardesses were aboard.

A member of the Civil Aviation Board at Bogota said the plane crashed within five minutes after takeoff.

Eyewitnesses were quoted as saying the plane hit a fog-shrouded hill and burst into flames.

Lansa officials said packages of fireworks, apparently smuggled aboard the plane, may have caused the crash.

Fireworks are popular during the Christmas season on Colombia, but are banned from transport in planes.

"The right wing of the plane appears to have come off by an explosion and was burned together with the fuselage," a Lansa statement said.

OPEN FLOOD GATES ON MONONGAHELA

Pittsburgh, Dec. 16—(AP)—Flood gates on all locks on the Monongahela river were open today, the district office of the army engineers reported, as a result of recent heavy rains.

The waters had crested by mid-morning at all points upstream from Point Marion, the engineers said. The crest, one foot under flood stage, is expected to reach the stream's mouth at Pittsburgh late tonight.

Hundreds Pack Beaty Gym To Participate In Carol Festival

Long after the program got under way last evening, ushers were kept busy providing additional seating facilities for the hundreds who packed Beaty Junior High School gymnasium to hear and participate in the annual Christmas carol festival presented by the high school music department.

Attractive decorations in the school entrance were the work of Harry Summers and a group of music students. Suspended behind the choir was a beautiful mural done by high school art students and at either side of the choir grouping was a lighted Christmas tree.

These provided a most artistic setting for the first selection, when all other lights were turned out and the young people sang the beautiful and familiar "Silent Night."

Carroll Fowler, vocal music instructor, led the audience and choir in the community sing and Harry Summers, instrumental director, was at the piano.

Highlights of the evening's varied and interesting program was the grouping sung by the a cappella choir with Gordon Odomark and Elita Carlstrom as soloists, Don Wood, Neil DeStefano, Barbara Schmutz and Nick Mangus accompanying one selection with trumpet and trombone quartet; three compositions played by the orchestra; the cantata given by the entire voice group and orchestra; and the thrilling Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "The Messiah," for which Charles Hutchings played piano accompanist.

Soloists for the cantata, "Child Jesus" by Ciolek-Kirk, were Elaine Pierce, L. G. Furman, Ned Salerno, Ruth Davis and Gordon Odomark, with Dick Cunningham and Bob Buchanan singing the narrators' roles.

For those who were unable to attend the festival, WNAE carried the full program on its FM facilities, with Dick Anderson at the mike and Mike D'Angelo at the controls.

Always a highlight of the pre-Christmas season, this year's festival seemed even more enjoyable than usual and a genuine credit to both the directors and the young students.

Contract For New Admission Building At State Hospital Awarded To Pittsburgh Firm

Harrisburg, Dec. 16—(AP)—A $1,096,500 contract for general construction of a new type admission building at the Warren State Hospital was awarded today to Navarro Corporation, of Pittsburgh.

The project, a key part of the state's $82,000,000 mental hospital expansion program, will provide facilities for the treatment of mental patients on their first admission to the hospital in addition to custodial care.

At the same time, the Department of Property and Supplies awarded these other contracts on the project:

Plumbing, Sans Corporation, Jamestown, N. Y., $163,458; electrical, Sans Corporation, $35,273; heating and ventilating, Sans Corporation, $96,625; electric elevators, Murphy Elevator Company, Louisville, Ky., $42,021; cafeteria equipment, Federal Manufacturing Company, Brooklyn, N. Y., $13,750; an hospital and laboratory equipment, Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Two Rivers, Wis., $9,658.

Also awarded was a $16,300 contract to Frank Kukurin and Sons, Inc., Wilmerding, for a pump house at Western State Penitentiary, and a $8,825 contract to A. L. Rake and Son, East Stroudsburg, for a new stock room and faculty reading room at the West Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Congressional Spy Hunters Promise Further Sensations

Washington, Dec. 16—(AP)—Congressional spy hunters today promised new and up-to-the-minute sensations, now that the celebrated Hiss-Chambers case shifts from Capitol Hill to a federal court room.

Yesterday's federal grand jury indictment of Alger Hiss, former high State Department official, on two counts of lying under oath satisfied the House Un-American Activities Committee that it has nailed down evidence of a pre-war Soviet espionage ring.

Now the committee intends to prove, members insist, that Red spying still is going on in the government.

They claim that a man still working for the army as a civilian state secrets of the famous Norden bomb sight and passed them along to Russia in 1938.

In the grand jury indictment handed down in New York Hiss was accused of having sworn falsely (a) that he did not give secret State Department papers to Whitaker Chambers a decade ago and (b) that he did not talk to the confessed former Communist spy ring courier during February and March of 1938.

Hiss issued a statement insisting his testimony had been true. But even as the committee switched its main efforts away from the Hiss-Chambers case, it turned loose 26 more documents it said were among those Chambers claimed he got from Hiss.

These covered such then top-secret information as a possible trade pact with Germany, Japanese troop movements, efforts of some top Nazis to persuade Hitler not to move prematurely against Czechoslovakia and Japanese efforts to raise money in the United States.

Only two of these documents were reproduced from the microfilm Chambers fished out of a pumpkin on his Maryland farm two weeks ago. The rest were among papers Chambers turned over to attorneys preparing for the trial of Hiss' $75,000 libel suit against him.

The paper dealing with a possible German trade treaty—a memorandum which referred several times to the approaching 1938 and (Turn to Page Fourteen)

Regulations For Deferments Defined

Harrisburg, Dec. 16—(AP)—Draft registrants desiring deferments should file their requests before or as soon as their questionnaires are filed, says the State Selective Service headquarters.

"The local board classifies each registrant on his questionnaire," said Director Henry M. Gross said. "Obviously, the local board wants all the information it can obtain at the time of classification, in order that a proper classification result in the first place."

Gross said, however, there is nothing to prevent employers from making requests for deferments after the registrant is classified, but he added:

"If all the information is available at the time of original classification, much time and trouble can be saved all these three interested parties—the registrant, the employer and the local board."

Probe Into Phone Rate Hike Heads Into More Fireworks

Harrisburg, Dec. 16—(AP)—A commonwealth probe of $25,000,000 telephone increase proposed for Pennsylvania headed today into more fireworks.

The Bell Telephone Company's boost, listed testimony on the replacement value of its property for hearing before the Public Utility Commission.

The subject is always one of portland bearing on whether the PUC allow Bell's new rates to go into effect July 21, 1949.

Ans. X. Alpern, Pittsburgh city solicitor, and PUC Chief Counsel Charles E. Thomas both said they would ask the telephone company to give detailed data on replacement value claims.

Significance of the replacement value aspect of the case is underlined by a commission policy that it, along with the original cost of the property, provides the standard for establishing a fair return to utility investors, usually between five and seven per cent.

Bell President Francis J. Chesterton testified at the opening of the hearing yesterday that the company will be earning "something less than 3 1/2 per cent on its net investment in 1949; approximately 3 1/2 per cent in 1950, and about three per cent in 1951."

"Based on estimated replacement value," he said.

REDS SWARM OVER SUBURBS NEAR PEIPING

Life Goes On As Usual Within Communist-Encircled City Behind Ancient Walls

ATTACK FORCE SMALL

Peiping, Dec. 16—(AP)—The sound of rifle fire punctuates the crisp air of Peiping today, but within the Communist-encircled city's ancient walls, life goes on much as usual.

The city has not fallen, although the Reds are swarming over its suburbs and rolling toward the thick arched gates.

(Moose's) dispatch scolded Peiping in Shanghai earlier that Peiping had been captured. The veteran AP correspondent's story was filed at 12:30 p. m. (11:30 p. m. Time in Shanghai).

The fighting appears relatively small-scale and concentrated mostly west of the city walls. Small arms fire is occasionally interspersed by mortar bursts and some light artillery which can be heard clearly throughout Peiping.

The Reds thus far have thrown only small forces into the attack, evidently reserving their main strength for an attempt to bottle up the city if Gen. Fu Tso-yi, government commander of North China, decides to fight all the way.

The Communists have pushed close enough to level cannon on the city itself—but they haven't. This has given impetus to rumors of peace talks between the Reds and General Fu.

(In Shanghai, Chinese newspapers banner the "Fall of Peiping" in extras which also proclaimed that peace talks in North China were beginning. Shanghai was wild with rumors among them a totally unconfirmed report that President Chiang Kai-shek had resigned.)

Immediate execution of anyone violating martial law in Peiping was proclaimed by Fu.

Even with guns booming just a few miles away, the one-time capital behaved unlike a city threatened with occupation any day now. It was calm—grumbling about rising food prices and the lights going out but not jittery.

(Nanking, the Chinese capital, was stunned by news that the government's commander in the north has allowed the Communists to reach Peiping's walls.

Warm Front Erases Glaze Of Ice From Highways In State

By The Associated Press
A warm front pushed its way eastward across Pennsylvania today erasing the glaze of ice from highways and boosting temperatures out of the freezing zone.

Pittsburgh's weather bureau reported the mercury at 57 with an even higher reading expected.

Elsewhere over the state temperatures early this morning generally were below the freezing point.

Occasional rain was forecast by the weatherman for all portions of the state today and tonight.

Tomorrow will see a drop in temperature and some snow flurries, however, in western Pennsylvania.

The State Highway Department kept crews on the job through last night spreading orders on icy hills and curbs after yesterday's freezing rain left roads covered with a thin glaze.

Yesterday's storm produced one of nature's oddities, a mixture of rain, sleet and snow falling in pellet form instead of flake.

Henry P. Adams, meteorologist at the Philadelphia weather bureau, said this rare mixture—known as graupel, a German term—occurs only when the temperature is near the freezing point and the cloud is cold and raining steadily on the ground.

Measurable snow also fell during yesterday's storm. Snowfall ranging from one half inch to three and a half inches was reported in the north eastern, north central and southeastern portions of the state.

While thin glaze that covered highways proved only a hazard to motorists, the storm had an artistic side, too. The freezing rain left trees and bushes coated with gleaming ice.

In Pittsburgh, taxi service of the Peoples Cab Company was disrupted for a three-hour period because of the storm. The company said the rain seeped into radio and telephone circuits in a new building on Sayre Road, near Boulevard, putting both the telephone switchboard and two-way radio system out of commission.

FIRE AT FRANKLIN

Franklin, Dec. 16—(AP)—Flames hit $10,000 to $15,000 damage to the foundry department of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. plant yesterday. Firemen said a short circuit in a battery charge caused the blaze.

700 Soldiers Plan "Holiday Hop" Home

Fort Lewis, Wash., Dec. 16—(AP)—A chance remark the wish of a GI that he could fly home for Christmas has snowballed into an air lift that will carry an estimated 700 soldiers east for the holidays.

The demand for chartered planes is so great, in fact, that travel agencies have had to call for help from California.

So far, 16 planes with a capacity of 26 to 30 passengers have been reserved. More probably will be needed, travel service officials said, and it is expected that within a few days they will be "crying for planes."

Seek Clues In Cedar Rapids Hotel Murder

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 16—(AP)—Police today hunted for the slayer of Byron C. Hattman, 29, an aircraft armament expert from St. Louis, whose body was found in a blood-stained seventh-floor hotel room yesterday. There was evidence of a terrific struggle.

Police were alerted to be on the lookout for suspicious persons who showed evidence they might have been involved in recent heavy fighting. He said:

"We are certain that the assailants responsible for the murder could not have escaped without some such injuries as black eyes, deep facial cuts and banded-up knuckles."

Coroner Robert Brosh said Hattman, who specialized in armament design for the Emerson Electric Co. of St. Louis, was killed by a powerful shot thrust which broke his seventh rib and pierced his heart.

Brosh said the nature of the wound indicated the weapon may have been a two-edged knife similar to one used by the marines in jungle fighting. Police theorized there may have been two attackers.

Hattman, a former marine, was 6 feet two inches tall and weighed 200 pounds.

Among clues which police studied was a message scrawled on a panel of framed chicken bones which was found in the trunk of Hattman's car. An 11 by 14-inch frame contained two chicken bones mounted on a white cloth which bore the crudely printed legend "last you forget."

This clue, however, was apparently a red herring.

WETA CONVICTED IN VET HOUSING FRAUD

Pittsburgh, Dec. 16—(AP)—A federal district court jury yesterday convicted a real estate broker and a builder on charges of taking illegal extra payments from home-hungry veterans.

Sentence was deferred pending an appeal.

Three veterans testified they gave $200 "under the table money" to David C. Kyle, Scott township broker, and Theodore Dangelico, Mt. Lebanon builder.

Kyle and Dangelico were accused of causing false certificates to be filed with the Veterans Administration in GI house loan applications. The government charged the certificates showed smaller amounts than the veterans actually paid for their homes.

The indictment came at the end of the grand jury's 18-months term.

A new panel was to be formed today, prepared to take over any unfinished work from the released jurors.

NO ACTION ON OLEO BY FARM FEDERATION

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 16—(AP)—The American Farm Bureau Federation withheld action today on the controversial issue of repeal of oleomargarine tax.

The bureau's resolutions committee debated the question at length but finally wound up voting to take no stand, paralleling procedure at last year's convention.

The organization has heavy membership in areas which produce both butter and vegetable oils used in margarine.

INDICTMENT ENDS FEDERAL JURY HEARING

Former High-Ranking State Department Adviser Is Held For Trial Under $5,000 Bail

SAYS HE TOLD TRUTH

New York, Dec. 16—(AP)—Alger Hiss today pleaded innocent to a federal grand jury's charge he lied when he denied giving secret government papers to ex-Communist agent Whitaker Chambers.

The indictment was returned last night as a climax to an 18-month jury probe of alleged Communist espionage.

Hiss, 44-year-old former high-ranking policy adviser in the State Department, made his plea in a firm, clear voice.

Federal Judge John W. Clancy fixed Jan. 24 as the tentative date for the trial after ordering that Hiss be fingerprinted and photographed. The judge set $5,000 bail.

Hiss, now on a paid leave of absence from a $20,000-a-year post as head of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, was charged on two perjury counts. Maximum penalty on each is a $2,000 fine and five years imprisonment.

Before the arraignment, Judge Clancy swore in a new special grand jury to continue the espionage probe for another 18-months term. He cautioned the 23 jurors against "unfair prejudice" but urged them "not to spare the guilty for any reason."

John Gillingham, an executive who was designated by the judge as foreman. A member is Harry Scherman, president of the book-of-the-month club.

The old jury's term expired last night.

Hiss' words, "I plead not guilty to both counts," could be heard throughout the large courtroom at his arraignment.

His attorney, Edward C. McLean, protested that Jan. 24 was too early for the trial. It was agreed the date would be tentative.

Immediately after the arraignment, Hiss was taken to F. B. I. offices for the fingerprinting and photographing, a routine procedure.

The indictment said Hiss "unlawfully, knowingly and willfully" swore falsely (a) he did not slip confidential State Department documents to Chambers, and (b) that he did not talk to Chambers in February and March, 1938.

Chambers is a confessed pre-war courier of Red intelligence.

Following his indictment, Hiss issued this statement through his attorney: "My testimony before the grand jury was entirely truthful."

Chambers, formerly a Time Magazine senior editor, first accused Hiss of supplying him with secret government data for transmission to Russian agents in testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee. Hiss has made repeated denials.

The indictment came at the end of the grand jury's 18-months term.

A new panel was to be formed today, prepared to take over any unfinished work from the released jurors.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING HOURS IN RETAIL STORES START ON FRIDAY

Local retail stores will start tomorrow evening and continue through Saturday as last week.

On Monday evening, the same windows will be open until eight o'clock for the convenience of mail patrons, but for the remainder of the week, the usual hours will be observed.

Mail which is not in the post-office by Monday evening has no chance of being delivered before Christmas," Mr. Bell said. "Therefore, it is useless to remain open in the evening after Monday."

Mr. Bell commented on the great degree of satisfaction in the use of the new postal meter in speeding up the handling of parcel post, and also of the great convenience which the stamp vending machine in the lobby has proved to be.

Librarian Gives Talk Before Social Science Club Members

The December meeting of the Social Science Club was held at the Woman's Club, with Donald Dalrymple, acting as chairman, presenting the speaker of the evening, Librarian Carl Hull.

Mr. Hull said in part:

Books are the storehouses of ideas and information, the best thoughts and the inspiring deeds of all ages.

The printed and bound volume which we know to-day as a book is the result of centuries of development. The earliest records of man were chiseled on stone, wood, or other durable material. Mr. Hull told us much of these early records and had many valuable specimens and copies of these old writings.

When the early Egyptians learned how to make a crude paper from papyrus a great advance was made in record making. Its surface made possible beautiful effects in lettering and ornamentation. It was written on one side only and was wound around a short stick. Many of these papyrus rolls have been found in the tombs of Egypt. The common practice of bookmaking establishments was to dictate the work to a great number of slaves (librarians) and each slave made one copy.

The inconvenience of the long rolls and the perishable character of papyrus led to the substitution of parchment and vellum, cut in rectangular sheets and bound together at one side with thongs. This brings us about the 4th Century A. D. to the form of our modern book.

For 1000 years there were no books except those transcribed by hand. All through the Middle Ages books were made only by the monks in the monasteries. The lettering was often very beautiful. Such manuscripts were said to be illuminated, and the colors in some of these old books are as vivid to-day as they were when they were written.

The covers of important works were often studded and banded with gold and silver, and were fastened with huge clasps. Most of the books of that time were copies of Greek and Latin classics and Bibles and church works written in Latin. "He who does not know how to write," wrote a monk at the end of one manuscript, "imagines that it is no labor, but though only three fingers hold the pen, the whole body grows weary."

The Chinese had probably done the first printing from carved blocks of wood. The first paper was probably made by them also. The Arabs learned the process from the Chinese, and the Saracens carried the art into Spain. There paper mills were busy while the Christians were yet unaware of how paper was made. About 1250 many Greeks fled from the Turks and introduced paper making into Italy.

In 1438 John Gutenberg invented movable wooden type. Eighteen years later he printed the Bible in Latin. This was the first complete book produced by a printing press. Mr. Hull told us that one of the Gutenberg Bibles is in a private library in Titusville.

Early in the 16th Century the books became smaller in size, thinner paper was used for the pages, and pasteboard was used for covers instead of wood. The most famous artists of the day made the illustrations, using not only woodcuts, but copper engravings, etchings, and lithographs. The Nuremberg Chronicle was the first illustrated book.

At about the beginning of the 19th Century there was a conspicuous advance in the art of book-making. Better paper was used and the old hand-printing press gave place to the steam cylinder press. But the books of today with their wonderful illustrations combined with high quality paper and clear sturdy type make those of one hundred years ago seem poor and crude.

Of course, we will proudly think of Benjamin Franklin as America's early printer. Four of the great printers of to-day were named as: Rogers, Updyke, Goudy, and Dwiggins. With all this advance in book-making the price of books has also advanced very much.

What are the steps in making one of the books of to-day? Supt. H. L. Blair showed on the screen a silent reel for Mr. Hull which demonstrated the steps better than can be written down, even if there were room to describe it in this paper. First the author prepare his manuscript for the publisher. The typesetting is done to-day almost entirely by the monotype, or linotype machines. Then comes in the "galley proof", the first appearance of the book. Here the printer and author can make any final corrections. Next the type is sent to the electrotyping rooms where copper plates of each page are made. Then the plates are locked up in forms of 16, 32, or 64 pages each and sent to the press room.

Mr. Hull described how the pages that came from the press room get into their places. He told us how the binding is done, how the covers get on, different types of binding, and of the final steps before the book comes to the shelves of the book store. All this was shown very interestingly on the reel, also.

How much we may congratulate ourselves that we live in the present age rather than in the days when books were only the luxuries of the rich. Some of us will soon be turning to "Uncle Remus" or to "Tiny Tim."

U.S. FOREST SERVICE

L. E. STOTZ

A new junior forester has been added to the staff of the Northern Ranger District of the Allegheny National Forest. He is Keith Pfeiffer and hails from Yankton, South Dakota. Keith graduated from Colorado A. & M. in 1948 where he specialized in forest management. He has had 2 years in the Navy Air Corps.

His previous experience with the Forest Service was with the St. Joe National Forest in Idaho. Prior to coming to the Allegheny, he worked for the Lumber and Timber Department of the Homestake Mining Company in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

This is Keith's first experience with northern hardwoods, and the great variety of these species, compared to the almost complete absence of hardwoods in the west, intrigues him.

After one evening in downtown Sheffield the first day of deer season, Keith has decided that there are more hunters in this area than there are people in the whole state of South Dakota.

Record Christmas Shopping Season Forecast In The State

Pennsylvania's 1948 Christmas shopping season "probably will be one of the biggest spending periods this state has ever seen," the state Department of Commerce has forecast.

"Because Pennsylvania has been making economic strides forward at a rapid pace," said Secretary of Commerce Orus J. Matthews, "there are a number of reasons to believe that Christmas spending in Pennsylvania this year not only will be big, but will be big enough to be the envy of many other states whose post-war development has not been as fortunate."

In Pennsylvania, total income has been growing faster than the national average and faster than the rate of increase for most of the states. Last year Pennsylvania's income was $322,490,000 larger than it would have been if this state had merely matched the national rate of increase; and this year Pennsylvania has shown many gains over last year.

"Individual incomes have been rising. More Pennsylvanians are employed in industry, service, and trade than ever before. Average weekly earnings have been rising and are well above the levels of last year. The cash income of

Air Mail Now Best Means of Delivery

Last call was sounded Dec. 11 by Postmaster J. K. Bell for patrons wishing to have Christmas cards and gift parcels delivered to any distance by Christmas Day.

Emphasizing that only seven days remain until Christmas, the local postmaster warned late mailers that air mail and air parcel post facilities should be used exclusively. Otherwise, due to the unprecedented volume of mail now in transit, gifts traveling by slow methods face the probability of not reaching their destination in ample time.

He pointed out that mail going by air will reach any city in the United States overnight, and in some instances will reach overseas points in 24 hours, particularly to United States possessions and territories as well as Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

"With a modern postal system second to none, our 42,000 post offices stand prepared to expedite incoming and outgoing holiday traffic through the last minute. However, tardy patrons must take the responsibility from here on unless they use our fastest transportation which is air mail and air parcel post," said the postmaster.

ERECTED NEW NEON SIGN

Dennis J. Di Piero, of the Warren Neon & Mfg. Co., has just completed the erection of a large neon sign for the Mercury and Lincoln cars at the fine new garage and salesroom of the Warren Automotive Company, in Warren's fast growing west side. This sign adds greatly to the appearance of the locality.

IN MARINE HOSPITAL

Word has been received that Gilbert Brown, former resident of Warren and Clarendon and now of Akron, O., is still confined to the U. S. Marine Hospital in Cleveland, where he recently underwent an operation. While he is reported convalescing properly, he is in a cast and will be obliged to remain in the hospital for another month or six weeks.

NEAR TRAGEDY

The delivery of "Sunshine baskets" to a friend nearly ended in tragedy Monday night for four Johnsonburg young people when an automobile skidded on the ice and upset on Route 219, a short distance north of Ridgway. Injured in the accident was Miss Lillian Condon, 16, who suffered a fractured knee. The leg was not fractured. She is confined to the Ridgway hospital. Escaping serious injury were Sam Samel, Jr., driver of the car, Steve Polaski and Miss Lynne Glover.

MYSTERY EXPLOSIONS

Corry Journal: Local residents who have been annoyed by loud explosions similar to those of a shotgun will probably learn within the next few days who is responsible. Two reports, one of them to State Police of the local substation, were made Tuesday. The official version of the incidents places the blame on a gang of youths from Spartansburg who have been driving about the city in a 1934 model car. Police say the driver turns the ignition off with the car moving in gear and allows raw gasoline to collect in the exhaust and then snaps the ignition on, causing the explosion. A second ward resident, however, claims those responsible for Monday night's explosions were Corry youths throwing large fire crackers from a late model convertible car in the vicinity of the Junior High School building. If apprehended, prosecution will be made against those responsible, officers said.

Amusements

Larry Parks in "Gallant Blade" At The Library Theatre Sunday, Monday, Tuesday

Larry Parks, who recently established himself as a swash-buckling star with a sensational performance as the fighting Scot in "The Swordsman," returns to the screen in a similar role in Columbia's "The Gallant Blade," romantic adventure drama in Cinecolor, coming to the Library Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Lovely Marguerite Chapman is co-starred, with top featured billing going to Victor Jory and George Macready.

Advance reports herald the coming of another big, handsome film in the greatest tradition of derring-do drama. Movie fans should respond with enthusiasm to the spectacular swordplay and glittering pageantry of "The Gallant Blade."

Then there was the spectacular climactic duel between Parks and Jory which is said to be the most sensational duelling sequence ever filmed. Planned and timed as carefully as a ballet, it has the two mortal enemies viciously fighting it out with rapier and dagger.

Plus "16 Fathoms Deep" filmed in startling Anasco color, with Arthur Lake and Lon Chaney.

Three Attend Conference Of Educators

Improvement of teaching personnel for the schools of the commonwealth was the goal of the Commission on Professional Standards of the Pennsylvania State Education Association at its first annual workshop conference held in Harrisburg.

In attendance from this area were Miss Cecilia Burch, president of the Warren Borough Teachers Association, representing the secondary teachers; Miss Dorothy Lincoln, representing elementary teachers; Dr. Carl E. Whipple, assistant superintendent of borough schools, and H. L. Blair, superintendent of county schools.

Among the 135 delegates from every part of the state were classroom teachers, supervisors and superintendents, college instructors and administrators, school directors, PTA members, college students, and Department of Public Instruction officials. With this broad representation of the educational forces in the state, the conference met head-on and from every angle the important issues facing the teaching personnel of Pennsylvania.

In their effort to raise the quality of teaching service in Pennsylvania, the delegates concentrated on such current issues as the supply and demand of teachers, improvement of teachers while serving, selection of suitable candidates for the profession, and enrichment of the program of instruction in the colleges which prepare the teachers.

"Berwick Plan" Christmas Displays Win High Praise From Citizens and Tourists

The finishing touches on Warren's "Berwick Plan" Christmas displays, which have attracted favorable comment not only among district residents but among tourists passing through town, will be made this week when the final display is erected on the lawn of Lacy school on the East Side.

Plans for erecting the display were made at a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting last night. Fran Buchanan, Christmas chairman, reported that the Santa Claus figure for the display, arrived in town Tuesday and that work will be started immediately.

Sponsors for the latest display are Sylvania Electric, Warren Baking Co., Hammond Iron Works, Pennsylvania Furnace and Iron, Warren Times-Mirror, United Refining Co., Emblem Oil Co., Struthers-Wells, National Forge and Ordnance, Warren Gear, Warren Car Co., Deluxe Metal and the Paramount Furniture.

Five other displays have been erected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with Warren businesses, industries and fraternal organizations. They are located at the Soldiers Monument near the Hickory street bridge; at the Elks Club; at Wetmore Park, corner of Market street and Fourth avenue; and at Celoron Park, on Pennsylvania avenue, west of East street; and on the lawn of McClintock school on West Side.

In addition, the New Process Company erected its own display alongside the company office on Hickory street.

The fact that the displays are attracting favorable comment from visitors in town is evidenced by two letters received here during the past several days.

Frank C. Gannaway, of St. Louis, wrote to the Chamber of Commerce, as follows:

"The Chamber of Commerce, Warren, Pa.

"Gentlemen:

"In my travels I stopped in your city the other day and I would like to express my thoughts to you regarding your Christmas decorations.

"That is the first time I have ever seen a city decorated in that manner. I think it is extremely attractive and very different. I can imagine at night it is much more effective than in daylight. I think it is very commendable and would like to see the same enthusiasm carried out in other cities."

A Pittsburgh resident, writing to a personal friend at the Hammond Iron Works, added this postscript:

"By the way, Warren is to be congratulated on the very splendid Christmas decorations. They are the best I've seen any place."

The plan for the Christmas displays, a popular perennial feature at Berwick, Pa., was first suggested for Warren by Maynard Johnson, formerly of Warren.

According to information received from Berwick, thousands of visitors from points throughout eastern and central Pennsylvania were attracted to that city when the official lighting ceremonies were held several days ago.

There were eighteen different attractive scenes, known as "Christmas Wonderland." The following fraternal organizations, industrial and commercial enterprises had outstanding displays: The Elks, F.O.E., Moose, Berwick Baking Co., American Car and Foundry Co., Confair Beverage Co., Berwick Department Store Co., The three National Banks, Wise Potato Chip Co., Berwick Shirt Co., Berwick Enterprise, Professional Women and Civic Club, Sittler Lumber Co., Berwick Business Men's Association, Berwick Chamber of Commerce, Berwick Creamery Co., American Legion and Auxiliary, Berwick Schools and Berwick Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Clubs. In addition to the above sponsors, the Berwick Ministerial Association and the Berwick YMCA will tell the "Christmas Story" by the use of a series of pictures flashed on a special screen with a special arrangement of display showing the Life of Christ.

The whole project is the work of the Berwick Junior Chamber of Commerce which also has a special display.

Tribal Rights Rule Adopted By Indians

Salamance Press: New rules to limit Indian tribal rights in cases of mixed marriages are provided in a resolution adopted by the council of the Seneca Nation at its meeting which concluded last week on the Cattaraugus reservation.

The resolution provides that anyone added to the rolls of the Seneca Nation after Jan. 1, 1950, must possess one-half degree or more of Indian blood.

No one on the rolls at the time the new rule takes effect will be dropped, however, and all persons now enrolled as members of the Nation will be considered full-blooded Senecas, William B. Berger, superintendent of the Indian agency here explained. Existing records do not show the degree of Indian blood possessed by members of the Nation, he said. Therefore all present members will be

The council also endorsed Theodore H. Haas, chief counsel of the Indian service, for appointment to the vacant position of commissioner of Indian affairs.

Despite protests in a Buffalo newspaper from a group called the "People's party" over Indian election methods, no representatives of the faction appeared at the council meeting to ask changes in the election law.

The council, however, appointed one committee to study the present election law and another to recommend possible amendments to the Seneca constitution. Both will report to the next meeting of the council.

Hope May Be In Berlin On Christmas Eve

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Staff Writer
Hollywood—Bob Hope plans to entertain U. S. troops in Berlin for Christmas—if his picture schedule works out.

Providing he finishes "Easy Does It" on time, the comedian will leave here Dec. 22 and arrive in Berlin Christmas Eve. He would be part of a show sent from the U. S. to bring Yuletide cheer to the beleaguered city. He'd be back here in time for the Rose Bowl game.

And then Hope leaves for his spent but four months together month's tour of appearances, which will take him to Fort Worth, Abilene, Austin, Dallas, San Antonio, Galveston, New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Memphis, Jackson, Nashville, Knoxville, Atlanta, Orlando, Miami, Tampa, Louisville, Pittsburgh. More cities are being lined up.

Hope will put on a concert in each town, assisted by Doris Day and the Les Brown band. The proceeds will help finance another picture for Hope—and also he has an income tax item of $150,000 coming up.

Edgar Bergen and Kay Kyser must be wondering if testimonial dinners are so lucky after all. NBC tossed each of them a big dinner for their ten-year anniversaries on the network. Now Kay is doing a daytime show on ABC after his show was dropped.

Barbara Stanwyck and Bob Taylor will spend Christmas apart, but it won't be their first. They had three lonely holidays when he was in the navy. Bob will be home from his English film later than he expected. The fog has been so

The Alp That Ambled Back Pays a Visit to Hal Boyle

New York—(P)—The hotel door opened and a fist the size of a mutton flipped out. It caught the main landing in the hall and snapped by head six inches to the leftward—all the play in the world.

"Hello, 'ello!" boomed Primo Carnera. "Come in!"

This is the way "Da Freeman" welcomes any visitor to his room except a dwarf. And a dwarf would probably get a big, friendly fist in his face too—if Carnera would swing that low.

I walked in with a friend, who carelessly tossed his hat on a bed. "Oh, my God, oh, my God, don't do that," Carnera reproached him. "That's bad luck—to put the hat on the bed."

But today bad luck is something the big man they used to call the ambler no longer has to worry about. He's riding the crest now—making $200,000 to $250,000 a year in the wrestling ring.

At 42 the ex-heavyweight boxing champ is a success again, and happier than he has ever been. He is in love with his own life story. And he likes to tell it, with the simple pleasure of a small boy reciting an adventure tale. But there is hardly space in one hotel room for Carnera, his king-size bed and his over-size voice.

The big fellow, so poor as a boy in Italy he wore gunny sacks for shoes, became European wrestling champion before he was old enough to vote. In 1928 he turned to boxing and was brought here in 1930.

He was built up to the championship in 1933, and lost it a year later to Max Baer. The huge shamblering man—he's six feet 6½ inches, weighs 265—was a somewhat pathetic figure in those days. The men who manipulated him cut his fabulous earnings more ways than a cafeteria pie.

"But it is not true that I went home in Italy in 1936 all broke," insisted Carnera, who has pride. "I bought a villa, a farm with eight tenant houses and some other property, which I still have."

No, the big mistake I made in my life—it was to take back my American dollars to Italy. When the currency there fell I lost all my cash."

During the war the Germans put Primo to work with a pick and shovel, and paid him fifteen cents for a ten-hour day—something, he said, no fight manager ever did to him.

Carnera returned to America with his family late in 1946 and reconverted immediately to "my first love—wrestling."

"It is much better than boxing," he said. "After 30 in boxing you are through. You lose the eyes, the speed. But in wrestling all you need to keep is the strength."

"You push, you pull—but your brain it don't get hurt. When they put the legs around the body and give the squeeze, it don't hurt the brain."

"My advice to Joe Louis is to quit before he gets hurt. He has gone down a long way. I was lucky not to get hurt."

"I am much better off now. In the boxing game you make the big gate. But maybe only once, twice a year. But in wrestling you work four, five, six nights every week."

Carnera gets from $350 to $2,000 a night, and, as he says, "this time I get to keep most of it myself." He used to be only amiable. Now he's smart as well.

Carnera wants to become an American citizen. His family—his wife and their children, Umberto, 9, and Giovanna Maria, 6—live in Los Angeles.

"They didn't speak English when they came over," he said. "Now Umberto is in the fourth grade, and ahead of the others in the class. I am amazing about it—the way he speak English. He is going to study and study until I tell him to stop and learn a trade. But not boxing or wrestling—oh boy, no!"

And then Carnera, who is artless but was never as foolish as he has been made to appear, said with massive dignity:

"It is all wonderful. I am very, very happy."

The gunny sack days are gone. There's food in the pantry, a car

PLACING NEW POLES

The Pennsylvania Electric Company, which has done an extensive job of tree trimming and line improving in Corry in recent weeks, has brought from Erie heavy pole setting equipment which digs holes by machine power. The electrical utility still has approximately 150 poles to replace before severe weather sets in. An even greater number have been replaced during the summer months. The new poles are of cedar, tamarack, fir and pine. All have been treated with a wood preservative applied under pressure. The preservative treatment calls for eight pounds of material to be forced into each cubic foot of the pole, adding tremendously to the weight and somewhat increasing the difficulty of handling but prolonging the service by many years. A good portion of the pole replacements being made will be in the city's Fourth ward.

State College Plans German Yuletide Sing

State College—For the 19th consecutive year, a German Christmas sing will be an integral part of the Yuletide program at the Pennsylvania State College.

Each Christmas season, before the students go to their homes, Dr. George J. Wurf conducts the sing on the front campus. He has been in charge since the first sing in 1930.

The sing was started by the German department," Dr. Wurf recalls, "to enhance the teaching program by having our students learn German music, songs, and customs through the medium of group singing."

The sing soon became a tradition on the campus, and annually attracts from 500 to 1,000 voices. Dr. Wurf, since retired as professor emeritus of German, still directs the program.

Professor Wurf came in to the assignment naturally since he had been born and reared in Germany, and since his native city of Munich had long been known internationally for its Christmas music.

The Penn State professor points out that, while Christmas is observed in much the same manner in Germany and the United States, the German people are not acquainted with Santa Claus. But good German children nevertheless are visited by the Christ Child on Christmas eve and gifts always are left in abundance, although usually they are food or clothing.

Court Ruling Guards Rights Of Accused

Washington—(P)—The Supreme Court raised strong new bulwarks yesterday to protect the rights of persons accused of crime.

The rulings:

1. Regardless of whether there is any "third degree," a confession is invalid if it is obtained while a prisoner is being held illegally through failure to carry him promptly before a committing magistrate. The court decision was divided, 5 to 4.
2. An actual emergency must exist to justify search and seizure without a warrant. A 6 to 3 decision.
3. A person accused of serious crime has the unequal right to counsel when he needs that help for adequate defense. Another 6 to 3 decision.

Justice Black, writing the majority opinion in the illegal detention case, argued that it merely affirmed an established rule.

He said the main finding in an earlier case which set the precedent was that prisoners must be taken promptly before a magistrate. He added that the "plain purpose" was to "check resort by officers to secret interrogation of persons accused of crime."

Justice Reed wrote a voluminous dissent in which Chief Justice Vinson and Justices Jackson and Burton joined.

Reed's contention was that the decision broadly extended the old rule. By his interpretation that rule was the psychological pressure, or at least more than mere illegal detention, must be present to invalidate a confession.

"The decision puts another weapon into the hand of the criminal world," Reed said.

The case was that of Andrew Upshaw, sentenced to prison for from 16 months to four years on conviction of taking a $155 watch from a house here. Police said he confessed while he was held. The decision throws out his conviction.

Knox Glass Bottle Founder Is Honored at Testimonial

Knox—R. R. Underwood, founder of the Knox Glass Bottle company and president of the Knox Glass Association, was honored at a testimonial dinner Saturday night in Hotel Underwood by officials of the Glass Bottle Blowers' association of the United States and Canada.

During the course of the dinner and meeting, Mr. Underwood was paid a high tribute by officials of the international association, and was presented with the honorable withdrawal card, the first one of its kind ever issued by the international association since it was founded in 1846.

Mr. Underwood has been a member of the Glass Bottle Blowers' association for nearly 40 years, and according to Lee W. Minton, of Philadelphia, president of the International, who made the presentation, he is the only individual associated with the International who is a member and also an employer. He added that "a presentation such as took place here this evening is unprecedented in the history of the glass bottle industry and makes Mr. Underwood a perpetual member of our international organization."

In addition to the withdrawal card with his name, "R. R. Underwood, Esq.," inscribed on the face, Mr. Underwood's name also is printed in gold lettering on the face of the black leather folder in which the card was placed. A plaque of the honorary certificate, approximately 8 by 10 inches, a replica of the withdrawal card, was also presented to Mr. Underwood for displaying in his office. The frame of the plaque is of wood—corresponding with the woodwork in his private office.

In accepting the card and plaque, Mr. Underwood said, "I am grateful for my membership in the Glass Bottle Blowers' association, and greatly appreciate my membership in this organization and the circumstances which bring about the presenting of this withdrawal card and plaque to me."

"This is a big spot in my life, to meet here with the officials of the International and local unions, Knox was started with a capital of between $5,000 and $6,000 back nearly 40 years ago, and today Knox Glass holdings are worth between 16 and 17 million dollars. One thing that was important in reaching this great success was my fellowship with this great union."

Charley Wright, of Philadelphia, vice president of the international union, spoke briefly, and said, "I blew the first bottle for Roy Underwood at Knox when he founded Knox Glass nearly 40 years ago." He added that "I remained with Roy for the next five years, and as far as union labor was concerned he always had the best price list of any bottle maker in the business."

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was Carl L. Clover, director of public and industrial relations for Knox Glass Associates. Entertainment was also provided during the evening by Mr. Clover.

More than 50 local union representatives, factory managers and wives attended the affair. Among those were Bob Webb, plant superintendent at Knox, Arch Steck, plant manager, Oil City; Wally Henry, Sheffield plant manager; Don Matthews, plant manager, Parkers Landing; Clarence Deible, plant manager, Marienville; George Underwood, assistant to the president of Knox Glass Associates; the Misses Margaret Marron and Betty Edmiston, secretaries to Mr. Underwood; Ray Dalton, Marienville, executive officer of the GBB, and all local union presidents of Pennsylvania factories in the Knox group.

Extra Caution Necessary On Icy Highways

Snow covering the city and countryside can be beautiful, but on the highway it can prove dangerous to the driver who fails to adjust his driving habits, T. Elmer Transeau, Director of Highway Safety, warns.

"The sensible motorist—after a light snowfall—will reduce the speed of his vehicle, lengthen the distance between his car and the car ahead, and will start and stop gradually," Transeau declared.

"But there always seem to be some drivers who lack sufficient responsibility to change their driving habits and use safety equipment needed when really severe weather and road conditions develop," he pointed out. "These drivers are the ones who follow other vehicles too closely on slippery pavements, neglect to put on tire chains when snow and ice conditions are really bad, omit fixing windshield wipers or defrosters and thereby cause traffic tie-ups and smashups."

Transeau urged that all motorists keep in mind that winter's two greatest threats to safety are reduced visibility and poor traction. Clear vision, he said, requires good-working windshield wipers, defrosters and adequate lighting system for night-time driving or very dark days with falling snow. Adequate traction, he added, requires good brakes—brakes that are equalized, and good tire chains—anti-skid chains that can reduce braking distance 40 to 50 per cent on passenger cars and 60 to 70 per cent for trucks on snow or ice.

Opportunity To Enlist In Vet Outfits

Enlistments for the U. S. Army's First Infantry Division and the U. S. Constabulary, with assignment in the European Command will be terminated on December 31, 1948 it was announced today by M/Sgt. Donald F. Miller, Commanding Officer of the local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station.

The Sergeant stated that men who are interested in enlisting in either of these veteran "outfits" should not defer their enlistments because of the Christmas holidays. Current Army policy permits the enlistee to obtain a 10-day delay enroute from the Recruiting Station at which he enlists, and return home for the holidays. If enlistment is accomplished on December 22, 23 or 24th, it would be possible to spend both Christmas and New Years Day at home. Actually this is a vacation with pay as Army pay starts on the date of enlistment.

Men who are interested in joining either the 1st Infantry Division or the U. S. Constabulary Forces are urged to contact their nearby U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, located at Room 207, Post Office Bldg., for further information.

Tidioute Is Decorated For Yule Season

John Sage, who was in Warren Wednesday, says Tidioute is all dressed up for Christmas, with a beautiful community Christmas tree elaborately arrayed with gorgeous Yuletide lighting. Electric lights entwined with creeping ground pine form numerous arches over the main streets of the business section, which gave rise to the remark of a traveling salesman that the town was more elaborately decorated than other of its size and likened the streets to a highway through Paradise.

Also the "honor roll" and its plot of green that the town council maintains in such splendid shape the year around, is also appropriately decorated for the season.

Heart Disease Still No. 1 Killer, Health Service Says

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—The heart is a time-bomb.
You carry it around in your chest. Or still nights, in the dark, you can hear it ticking away.
Then one day—if you're one of about 80 per cent of the people—it seems to explode.
Maybe there's only a dull pain, or maybe it's a blinding pain, and then dead, or long months of lying quietly in bed.
The public health service says heart disease is still the No. 1 killer, that 460,000 people died of it last year.
For years, as I've grown older, I've wondered how a man feels who's had a heart attack and recovered.
I've wondered what it did to him and to his thinking about himself.
Then found a man who had such an attack, a man of 44 who had been extremely active physically, one of my closest friends.
He told me how it had been for a couple of nights before:
"There was a terrible feeling, like indigestion, not a sharp pain, just that dull feeling that sent him to the doctor."
The doctor took a cardiogram, a check on the heart. My friend asked him, dead-pan, when it was over:
"Well, what's the score?"
"It's a heart attack," the doctor said.
"How much time do I have?" my friend asked him.
"I don't know," the doctor said. "You may live 10 years, maybe 20, maybe till 65. I can't tell how your arteries are."
It was a terrible shock. I guess my friend had thought his arteries would be all right till he was 100. Anyone feels that way, I guess.
My friend's attack was mild. He could sit up in a chair most of the time and read. He told me:
"I looked out the window, day after day, and my whole life went before me. I thought: Suppose I die today or tomorrow. What difference does it make?

"I can't see where it makes much difference, except to my family. It wouldn't make much difference to me. I've lived my life. I know what being alive in the world is."
"I've tried to live it without hate or prejudice for any other human being."
"I've been married. I know what it means to subordinate some of your own ideas to someone else's so there can be peace within a home, at least."
"I've had children. I hope I've done a good job with them. I'll never know for sure, because they'll live longer than I."
"I know if I die today, I leave a job unfinished. I hand it to my

Phone Rate Case Hearing Opens Dec. 15

The public Utility Commission has fixed Dec. 15, 16 and 17, for initial hearings in Harrisburg in the investigation which it instituted to determine fairness and reasonableness of a proposed rate increase filed by Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.
The Commission's investigation is also designed to determine whether the new rates are discriminatory in any of their features.

Bell filed the increased rates Nov. 19, 1948, to become effective Jan. 21, 1949, but the Commission by unanimous vote in executive session Nov. 23 suspended them for six months to July 21, 1949, and ordered the inquiry.
PUC Assistant Counsel Arthur J. Diskin, Mendville, and Assistant Counsel Lloyd S. Benjamin, Harrisburg, were assigned to assist Chief Counsel Charles E. Thomas, Stoneboro, in the case.
The Commission's technical staff in the proceedings will be headed by Roger A. McShea, Jr.,

Camp Hill, Director of the PUC's Bureau of Rates and Research. He will be assisted by Ralph N. Evans, Pittsburgh, Chief Accountant, and C. Radford Berry, West Reading, Chief Evaluation Engineer.

WE, THE WOMEN

By Ruth Millett
NEA Staff Writer

The kids who get the most out of Christmas aren't necessarily the ones who get the most under the Christmas tree. The children to whom Christmas means the most are: Those who have their own Christmas secrets, and who are excited over the small gifts they have made for their parents or saved their own money to buy.

The children whose mothers act as though Christmas is a wonderful time, not a hectic event to be tackled like the job of spring housecleaning.

The children who get to help with the pre-Christmas activities, like selecting and decorating the tree, making cookies, wrapping packages, etc.

The children whose Christmas toys are really theirs, to do with as they like. What's the fun of a new toy if the parents keep warning, "You'll break it if you do this or that?"

The children whose parents really believe that Christmas is for children and stay home with them Christmas Eve instead of running off to a grownup party, and who make Christmas Day a family day.

The children who get enough Christmas.

Leathernecks Are Going All Out For Christmas Function

The Leathernecks Detachment of the Marine Corps League is going all-out this year to make its third annual Marine dance on Christmas night one of the outstanding social events of the holiday period.

Harry Summers' Orchestra has been engaged for the music and there will be dancing from nine until one o'clock in the Woman's Club ballroom. In addition to the dance music and novelty numbers by the orchestra, Mr. Summers will feature two vocalists, Donlyn Baird and Bob Daye.

Decorations will be in keeping with the season, according to the committee members, Frank Gutierrez, Tony Vogler, August Julian, Bill Shine and Howard Clark. Proceeds from the dance will be used to finance future projects of the detachment, one of which will be the eventual purchase of a Marine Home.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to share in the evening's fun, with tickets obtainable at the following business places about town:

Candyland, Cozy Corner, Geracimos, Smith Drug Store, Blue and White, United Cigar Store, B and B Smoke Shop, Texas Lunch and the Village Kitchen.

Holiday Meeting Of Blue Stockings

The Blue Stocking Club met at the home of Mrs. C. Vance Weld in Pleasant township for its annual Christmas party and luncheon. Twenty-three members were seated at tables centered with Christmas trees and a delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses, with Mrs. E. E. Koebley assisting.

At the conclusion of the serving, a short business session was held and reports of the secretary and treasurer presented. The session was then turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. R. E. Sires. She presided for a very clever little skit, calling on each and every member to perform, either by singing, playing or reciting. After each one had proved her ability as an entertainer, she was rewarded with a lovely Christmas gift from Santa in the person of Mrs. W. R. Carlin, who played her part to perfection. To conclude the program, Mrs. Sires read "The Night Before Christmas" and all joined in singing "Jingle Bells."

Legion Auxiliary Membership Has Delightful Party

On Tuesday evening, members of Chief Cornplanter Unit 135, American Legion Auxiliary, gathered in the spacious living room of the Legion Home for a Christmas party not soon to be forgotten by those fortunate enough to be present.

The home was festive in its holiday adornment, with the central feature being a large tree appropriately decorated by Miss Inez Kelly, Mrs. John Dahler, Mrs. Ed Brennan and Mrs. William Johansen. Legends, historical facts and verses were read, revealing the interesting heritage of the Christmas tree.

Mrs. William Yeager delighted old friends and new with her traditional Christmas songs, for which Mrs. Dorothy Engstrom played the accompaniment.

As a courtesy of the Rapp Studio, winsome little Rosemary Oberg presented novel interpretations in a series of popular numbers, and Audrey Spindler, instructor in the Chicago Conservatory of Music, was guest soloist. Miss Spindler is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Spindler, East street. The program closed with Mrs. Engstrom at the piano and Mrs. Yeager leading the group in singing "Silent Night."

Guests were then invited to the dining room, where, from a table beautifully appointed, colorful refreshments were served by Mrs. Leland Webster and Mrs. Effie Spindel, co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Freeman Peterson, Mrs. Clinton Hildum, Miss Alice Anderson, Mrs. Merle Graham, Mrs. Louis Vici, Mrs. Norman Matthews, Mrs. Olga Hultberg and Mrs. Sam Loomis. Mrs. George Cobb, unit president, and Mrs. Ralph A'Hara presided at the urns.

After unanimously voting a contribution to the Alias Santa Claus Fund, the Tuberculosis Fund, and completing plans for remembering every hospitalized veteran in the vicinity, the group marched to lively music played by Miss Joan Wertz for the customary exchange of gifts.

The auxiliary is deeply grateful to the very busy people who so graciously shared their talents to make this party such an outstanding success.

Many Activities Are Considered By Board of County Girl Scout Council

The December meeting of the board of the Warren County Girl Scout Council was held Tuesday afternoon at the Little House, with the president, Mrs. Ralph Van Ord, in charge.

Routine business included many announcements from committees and summaries of activities since the last board meeting.

Mrs. William Glassman, chairman of the Juliette Low committee, had with her some of the items for the Christmas project. They will be on exhibition at the Warren National Bank the week of December 19th, and in North Warren and Sheffield.

Mrs. A. E. Soderholm, camp chairman, invited members of the board to attend the camp reunion to be held at the American Legion Home, Monday, December 27, from two to four o'clock.

Plans for the Twelfth Night party to be held at the YWCA on Thursday afternoon, December 30, from two to four and in Sheffield the following day at 1:30 at the high school gym are complete. It is at these parties that the King and Queen will be chosen by token-baked into a cake. The King and Queen are then crowned at the Burning of the Greens.

Members of the Senior Planning Board, two representatives from each senior troop in the county, will meet Saturday, December 18, at the Little House at 11 a. m., each girl bringing a box lunch with her.

It is at this meeting that the two representatives to serve on the sectional senior steering committee will be chosen. The two Warren County Seniors will in turn meet early in January with other Senior Scouts from this section at Allegheny State Park to plan for the second of the Sectional Senior Campfires.

Christmas carolers are now rehearsing for the two singing sessions at two and four p. m. at Metzger-Wright's on December 23rd. Caroling is also being done by many troops throughout the county.

All committee chairmen are asked to get their annual reports to the office before Christmas so that they may be prepared for national and for the printed report.

The annual meeting will be held on Thursday, January 13th, at the YWCA in the nature of a thirteen dinner, with the table service, dessert and bread furnished by the arrangements of the public relations committee.

The policy of Girl Scouts and Senior Scouts parading when not in uniform was discussed and the recommendation made by the leaders that all Girl Scouts and Senior Scouts be permitted to participate was passed. Girls not in uniform are to wear dark skirts and white blouses, however.

Several amendments to the present by-laws were discussed and will be sent out to the registered members along with the state of officers and standing committee members in advance of the annual meeting.

County Auxiliary Busy With Plans

The Auxiliary of Halgren-Wilcox Post, American Legion of Youngsville, held its December meeting Tuesday evening with 30 members present for the three dinner served at beautifully decorated Christmas tables.

During the meeting, a collection was made for the veterans' welfare fund to be sent to Deshon Hospital. The sum realized was $15.

The Auxiliary will cooperate with the Post in its local welfare work in and around Youngsville, and the first benefit event will be a "Feather Party" to be sponsored by the Post and Auxiliary on Saturday evening at eight o'clock in the Legion Home. Proceeds of the party will go to the welfare fund. There will be special prizes and a large crowd is expected.

Another event planned by the Auxiliary will be a combination rummage and bake sale to be held in the Legion Home on Friday and Saturday, January 14 and 15.

Grange News

DIAMOND PARTY

The annual Christmas program of Diamond Grange at Tion, will be given on Tuesday evening, December 21, following the regular order of business. Members bringing children were asked to call Allos Bean before December 14, and those who did not do so are advised they may still bring the youngsters but they will not receive a gift from the Grange. However, a treat is to be provided for all in attendance.

NOT NEW

The mechanical seeder is not a modern invention. An ancient seal from Babylon shows a seeding machine equipped with a hopper to receive and sow the seed.

A form of mudclay ideally suited for postage stamps is made from the starch contained in sweet potatoes.

Amounts range from $5 for those employees just eligible to $80 for those with 15 or more years of service.

The Dancing Heart

BY EMILY NOBLE

CHAPTER 15
SITTING in her chair in her new apartment, Rosalie smiled in complete happiness. Rex had found this place for her, and though the rent was staggering after what she had been used to all her life, she had quietly moved in. He was handling her money for her and said he wanted to know where she was and what she was doing all the time. "Haven't I any private life?" she had queried laughingly, and he had answered, "No one has any privacy in the theatre. You're a goldfish in a bowl. You belong to everybody, and if everybody doesn't feel that way they don't go to see you and you don't click. You have clicked. You can't turn back any more."

She remembered the words a dozen times a day and they were music to her. As if she would ever want to turn back. She was absolutely through with the past. She would never even look back to see how far she had come so quickly. She had closed the door firmly when she cut Pat Bulger dead on coming out of the theatre the second night. It seemed years ago instead of just three weeks, but she could still see his look of amazement. He had run after her and held the door as she was getting into the taxi. He had cried, "Rosalie! It's me. It's Pat. I want to take you home to celebrate. And she had said coldly, "I don't know you. I never saw you before. Please take your hand off the door."

She laughed softly now. Pat had looked even blonder than Joe when she had slapped him. A policeman had come along and told him not to worry the actresses. It was Tim on his horse, but she hadn't looked at him. Pat had cried, "But it's our Rosalie. We want to take her home to celebrate. We—"

"But I'll miss the dance. I want to see her do the laughing steps." "You'll see it all tomorrow night. Bring her here in a cab and then Joe can see her home later. I'll attend to fixin' some tea and gettin' rid o' that Bella Duffree."

"And me, too, I suppose," snapped Lottie.

"Why not?" Mrs. Monahan was cool. "You can go out with Pat now and borrow some money, which is most likely all you came after anyway."

Pat went to her and gave her a kiss. "So long as I get a dime a you can have it for Tuffy. What's the good o' big wages if you can't do a little good?"

"I knew you would. He always asks about you in his letters, Pat."

Pat came hurrying out and in a minute he and Lottie were gone. For a little space the fat woman sat immobile, enjoying the silence broken only by the ticking of the kitchen clock and the sound of a radio from the house on the next street. The place always seemed so peaceful after Lottie left.

But there were things to do. She mustn't sit there dreaming. Time was slipping away. She turned her head and called through the flat.

"Bella. Could you come here a minute?"

It was Joe who came back slowly and bent to kiss her.

"Where's Pat? And Lottie?"

"Pat has gone to get Rosalie at the stage door. Lottie has gone, thank God."

Joe drew a deep breath. "I sent Bella home. Her mother took his brown hand. 'You really love Rosalie, don't you?'"

"Yes, Mom."

"I'm sure she loves you, too. Only she may not realize it yet. 'I'll try to make her understand, Mom.'"

Pat banged the table so hard the dishes danced. "Will you shut your big mouth and let her tell us what happened. If it's really our Rosalie we're going to see her tonight and pack the theatre every night so she'll be a success. She's our Rosalie." He jumped up and knocked over his half filled beer glass in his enthusiasm.

Mrs. Monahan caught his hand. "Take it easy, Pat. I don't like to give Lottie right in anything, but what chance is there of our Rosalie being so grand all at once? The Paty is a good place, and how could she be there all at once with nobody to teach her nothin' but me?"

"And you're the best teacher in the world, and don't we all know it? Wouldn't I flatten anybody's face who dared to say it wasn't so? Bella has seen her dance here."

JOE'S voice came slowly.

"It can't be our Rosalie. She's working for a Mr. Pickering and—"

Lottie snorted. "That's a lie. I called that office and no one knows anything about her. I also went to the house where you said she lived and her name isn't on any of the bells."

Pat slapped his thigh exultantly. "That's it. If she's dancing at Paty's she must be gettin' grand money. She'd be livin' at a swell hotel or on Park Avenue."

Mrs. Monahan patted his arm. "Take it easy. You'll last longer. Wait till tomorrow night, unless you're afraid she ain't good enough to last that long."

"She's good enough to last a year. Wasn't she good, Bella?"

Bella stood looking at Joe, who was not looking at her at all. She turned slowly to Pat and shrugged elaborately.

Mrs. Monahan heaved herself to her feet. "Don't talk." She gave Pat a gay shove. "Put on a clean shirt and your Sunday suit."

The Dancing Heart

BY EMILY NOBLE

SITTING in her chair in her new apartment, Rosalie smiled in complete happiness. Rex had found this place for her, and though the rent was staggering after what she had been used to all her life, she had quietly moved in. He was handling her money for her and said he wanted to know where she was and what she was doing all the time. "Haven't I any private life?" she had queried laughingly, and he had answered, "No one has any privacy in the theatre. You're a goldfish in a bowl. You belong to everybody, and if everybody doesn't feel that way they don't go to see you and you don't click. You have clicked. You can't turn back any more."

She remembered the words a dozen times a day and they were music to her. As if she would ever want to turn back. She was absolutely through with the past. She would never even look back to see how far she had come so quickly. She had closed the door firmly when she cut Pat Bulger dead on coming out of the theatre the second night. It seemed years ago instead of just three weeks, but she could still see his look of amazement. He had run after her and held the door as she was getting into the taxi. He had cried, "Rosalie! It's me. It's Pat. I want to take you home to celebrate. And she had said coldly, "I don't know you. I never saw you before. Please take your hand off the door."

She laughed softly now. Pat had looked even blonder than Joe when she had slapped him. A policeman had come along and told him not to worry the actresses. It was Tim on his horse, but she hadn't looked at him. Pat had cried, "But it's our Rosalie. We want to take her home to celebrate. We—"

"But I'll miss the dance. I want to see her do the laughing steps." "You'll see it all tomorrow night. Bring her here in a cab and then Joe can see her home later. I'll attend to fixin' some tea and gettin' rid o' that Bella Duffree."

"And me, too, I suppose," snapped Lottie.

"Why not?" Mrs. Monahan was cool. "You can go out with Pat now and borrow some money, which is most likely all you came after anyway."

Pat went to her and gave her a kiss. "So long as I get a dime a you can have it for Tuffy. What's the good o' big wages if you can't do a little good?"

"I knew you would. He always asks about you in his letters, Pat."

Pros And Cons of Spy Case Reviewed By Writer For A. P.

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington—(AP)—Read this and decide for yourself what you think of the spy case.
But remember that not all the cons may yet be publicly known. A number of people have been named in the case. Most often mentioned are Whittaker Chambers, 47 years old, and Alger Hiss, 48.
Chambers is a writer. Hiss used to be an official of the State Department.
Start at the beginning. Chambers says that in 1938, after 14 years as a member, he quit the communist party. Part of that he says he had been a courier for a Communist underground.
The next year, 1939, he says he told President Roosevelt that the underground.
But he says Marvin McIntyre, President's secretary, told him to take his story to Adolf A. Berle.

He says he told them he did not.
The story now moves up to 1948. The House Un-American Activities Committee, which by this time had heard of Chambers and his story, called him as a witness last summer.
Chambers told the committee Hiss and others had been part of a Communist underground back in 1938 but he said spying was not the primary purpose.
When asked if he had any factual evidence to support his charges, Chambers said "nothing beyond the fact" that he had known Hiss as a Communist.
Then the committee called Hiss. Hiss denied ever knowing Chambers. Then, confronted with Chambers, Hiss said he had known him here years ago as "George Crosley," a writer, and had sublet his apartment to him. He said "Crosley" was a "dead-beat."
Then a New York grand jury, which for months had been investigating an alleged pre-war Soviet spy ring here, called Hiss and Chambers to testify before it. Nothing happened.
Then Hiss sued Chambers for $75,000 for calling him a Communist.
Finally—faced with the loss of $75,000 unless he could prove his charge—Chambers produced papers which he said were evidence that Hiss was a Communist. He said Hiss had taken these papers from the State Department for the Soviet spy ring.

7,700 Tent Stakes Only White Elephant For This Man

New York—(AP)—I know a man who's got 7,700,000—and he's complaining.
But R. W. ("Rocky") Johnson doesn't have 7,700,000 dollars. He has 7,700,000 tent stakes.
And that's why he's complaining. He's a one-man monopolist with a monopoly nobody seems to want—tent stakes. And Rocky, a Kansas City businessman, owns a mountain of 'em.
"Enough," gloomed the nation's unwilling tent stake king, "to stretch about 2600 miles, or from Cleveland to Seattle."
Rocky's troubles began last May while he was traveling about the country buying war surplus materials. At New Orleans an official of the War Assets Administration told him:
"At Shreveport we've got 8,500,000 surplus tent stakes. It's a real bargain. Think of all the things they could be used for."
Rocky agreed it was a rare opportunity. He rushed to Shreveport and found the tent stakes. They had cost the government $988,000—better than a dime apiece. Rocky got them for a fraction of a cent each.
"But you have to move them out in 90 days," he was warned. Rocky looked at his tent stakes again. They were in boxes in a stack 15 feet high, 80 feet wide. And the stack stretched a half mile.
"Eighty-nine days later I got the last of 'em moved to the other side of town by a planing mill," Rocky sighed. "But I was twenty pounds lighter and had 400 new gray hairs."
Meanwhile, I had been thinking what to do with them. Everybody thought good seasoned oak tent stakes would be fine for a lot of things. So did I. But for what?
Half the tent pegs were 24 inches long, half were 18 inches.
"First I talked to the tent manufacturers," Rocky recalled. "It turned out that 8,500,000 tent stakes were enough to last them 50 years—and they don't buy that far ahead."
On the other hand there weren't enough to make it profitable to set up a factory to turn them into hardwood flooring.
How about making them into surveyors' stakes? Too costly. Croquet posts? No market there either. How about turning them into small picket fences? The tent stakes were too heavy and thick. "I couldn't sell them for firewood because they burn too fast," mourned Rocky. "I was willing to donate a big batch to the Boy Scouts—but it would've cost me more to ship them than I paid for 'em."
About then Rocky learned that an army depot at Memphis had 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 small pup tent pegs for sale.

"As far as I was concerned they'd stay for sale forever," he said. "I doubt if any man in history ever owned as many tent pegs as I did—and I certainly didn't want any more."
The only way Rocky has found so far to get out from under his investment is to manufacture his tent stakes into camp stools. Each takes eight pegs and some canvas. "That left me the job of finding 1,062,500 people who wanted to sit on a camp stool," he said. "So far I've only found 100,000."
But this used up 800,000 tent stakes—leaving him only 7,700,000 to go. One reason Rocky wants to pull up stakes and get out of the tent stake business is to give him time to work out another small personal problem.
"I also bought 70,000 steel files to sharpen saws," he sighed. "And you'd be surprised how few people are sharpening saws this year."

To That Man With Beard

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Dear Santa:
As you know from other years, I'm certainly not a girl who has everything. In fact, I'm one of the women who are NOT Christmas problem children.
I could be made happy if you'd send me a bunch of single earrings to replace the left-eared pieces I leave in coin telephone booths. And stockings that would either match some good singles I have or new nylon ones that would get runs in both legs at the same time.
I'd adore to have them, Santa, but I'll even forego that if you'll just bring two little items.
In fact, if I can just have these two, I promise not to ask for a single thing—next year, even.
Santa, I want an electric hair dryer and a thing they call a zipper repair tool set. If I have just these two things I'll never need another thing. Between them, they can cope—at least their press agents claim they can cope—with just about every single one of life's problems. Well, maybe I'd still need an alarm clock, but that's all.

Sure, I go to the hairdressers to have my hair done. You missed the point. If I get a hair-dryer I can dry dishes with it in a flash. I can defrost windows and the refrigerator; heat flashbombs in cold weather; blow dust out of radio and television set; warm adhesive tape; fluff that raccoon coat; solidify frosting on cake; thaw frozen foods; blow foam off beer; warm cold feet, and fill air cushions.
You probably wonder, Santa, how you ever managed to get along without a hair-dryer yourself. You could fluff your beard with it, for goodness' sake, and dry the reindeer after their baths.
Then about the zipper repair tool kit. If I can only have a rotating machet head tool with four prongs, a tool mesher and a tool opener for the slider, there's nothing I can't do because just about everything nowadays zips in and out. But mease seems to slide open and it's horrible. And my psychiatrist said that the inception of my last breakdown dated from the minute I caught that imported tweed skirt in its own zipper—which was quite an achievement.
If you just spread enough of those two items around this year, I bet you could spend next winter in Florida. Is it a deal?

Dragons And Wolverines Meet Friday

Warren High Dragons, winners of six straight home games on Beatty court, will play their first out-of-town basketball game of the season Friday night when they tackle the Sheffield Wolverines on the Sheffield floor. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Sheffield had trouble getting into the win column this year, having lost three in a row. However the Wolverines always play an inspired brand of ball against the Dragons and may be able to make trouble.

Friday night's basketball program also lists two upper Allegheny Valley League tilts, with the veteran Tionesta five facing Youngsville on the Eagles court and Tidouit will battle Sugar Grove at Sugar Grove.

Other games on Friday night's page card include: St. Marys at Brookway, Punxsutawney at Kane, Spartansburg at Pleasantville, Bradford at Brookville, Oil City at Franklin (non-league), Meadville at New Castle, Erie Tech at Grove City.

LONGDEN TO REPEAT AS LEADING JOCKEY

San Bruno, Calif. (NEA)—With more than 250 winners to his credit, the veteran Johnny Longden is on his way toward leading the country's race-riders for the second straight season. In 1947, Longden topped the list with 316 winners, the most any rider was credited with since 1908, when Vincent Powers scored with 324. Longden, who also headed the list in 1938 with 286 winners, will thus become the second jockey to lead the country on three occasions.

New Fielding Records Set In American

Chicago, Dec. 16 (AP)—American League players set three new major league fielding records and tied five others during the 1948 baseball season.

Cleveland's World Champions fielded .982 to lead the circuit, the American League Service Bureau statistics disclosed. The Indians missed by a single point of tying the major league mark they established in 1947. In addition the champions also topped the players who were the best defensively at their respective positions.

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager-shortstop, topped the shortstops with .975, while Ed Robinson, traded by the Indians this week to Washington, led the first basemen with a .995 mark. Dale Mitchell captured the top mark for outfielders with .991.

The official averages show that George Stirmweiss of New York was the best fielding second baseman with .993 in 141 games. Hank Majeski of Philadelphia led the third basemen with .975, and Bob Swift of Detroit was the highest ranking catcher with a .991 percentage.

Stirmweiss shattered two major league marks in leading the circuit's second basemen. His .993 percentage erased the old mark of .992 and his five errors in handling 715 chances was a new season low for miscues.

Thirty-six pitchers had perfect fielding records, with Fred Hutchinson of Detroit ranking first in his leading figure of 64 chances.

COMISKEY MEETING CHAMPION TONIGHT

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 16 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Joe Louis meets Paterson's Pat Comiskey tonight in a six-round affair billed as an exhibition.

For Comiskey it will be a chance to exhibit whether he is good enough to rate a fight with Ezzard Charles.

Charles' manager, Jake Mintz, has said the bout, tentative for Jan. 14 in Cleveland, depends largely on Comiskey's showing tonight.

Louis, as in all of his other exhibitions, will be putting his crown on the line, when he walks into the ring.

ALL-STAR PREPARE FOR ORANGE BOWL
Miami, Fla., Dec. 16 (AP)—Herman Hickman, Yale's head football coach, was due to arrive here today to start drilling his All-Star team for the Shrine North-South football game in the Orange Bowl Christmas night.

Hickman's 25-man northern squad includes four Pennsylvanians—Bud Sam Tamburo, Penn State; tackle Robert Mirth, Muhlenberg; All-America center Chuck Bednarik, Pennsylvania and Elwood Petchell, Penn State back.

Style Shop Seeking Fourth Win Tonight

The high-stepping Style Shop quintet, winner of three straight YMCA City Basketball League tilts, will tackle the Warren Business School squad tonight at 8:30 o'clock on the Y floor.

A second league tilt, slated for 7:30 tonight, will pair the Rockets against Struthers Wells.

The Dancing Heart

BY EMILY NOBLE

(From Page Fourteen)

"I WAS just about to ring your bell, Rosalie. May I come in?" Rosalie knew Roy was watching from the elevator. She had no idea who this elegant girl was but she smiled at her as if at an old friend.

"Do come in, of course. Good-bye, Roy. I'll see you tomorrow."

The stranger was brown, and moved with a lithe, athletic step. Once they were in the living room she held out her hand.

"I'd better introduce myself right away. I am Winnie Carlton. My friends call me Winnie. I hope you will, since you fear I can only think of you as Rosalie. Wayne never calls you anything else."

"Of course I know. You are the girl from San Francisco that Wayne Kahler is going to marry. How nice of you to come to see me. How did you ever find me? How is Wayne? Is he here with you? Are you married already? Oh what a bunch of questions. Please sit down and forgive me. Can I offer you a drink?"

Winnie laughed and sat on the edge of a chair. "You can't offer me anything so good as your bubbling enthusiasm. But I was sure you would be like that or I never would have had the nerve to burst in on you like this. I should have written or phoned but well, I did want to surprise you a little, especially after seeing you dance. I just managed to catch your last performance. It was splendid."

"I'm so glad you liked it. What—what did Wayne say? Where is he? Is he hiding out in the hall?"

"Wayne is in San Francisco. I just came to do some shopping—and to see you."

Rosalie nodded. "I'm glad you came to see me. Am I not a judge, because I threw Roy out. He accompanies me and is a fine musician, but also a pest. But I do want to know about Wayne. When is the wedding to be?"

Sooner or Later

Jules Vorne Stiles, Kansas U. football coach, gave his squad one look at the films of the game Kansas lost 60-7 to Oklahoma and then consigned the films to the darkest corner of the storeroom. Here's how he explained: "When Ray Evans graduated, his Jersey and number were retired. No Kansas player ever will use that num-

"To isn't I've decided not to marry him."

"When did this happen?" gasped Rosalie.

"Just now. Since I've seen you. No, I'm not crazy or even particularly impulsive, but I want to do what's right. Right away I not only see that you are beautiful and I like you, but I see why Wayne loves you as much as he does."

"Wayne? Loves me? Winnie, don't be foolish. Wayne loves you."

"Thanks for the Winnie. You're as sweet as you are beautiful. But I know Wayne loves you and you know it. If he could only see and hear you asking about him he'd realize you love him. Don't try to deny it. I like him tremendously, but I don't love him. We can call him up on your phone right there and tell him the news. I know where he can be reached at this hour. He can catch a plane in an hour."

Rosalie looked straight into her eyes. "Do you always jump to conclusions like this? She said it slowly to steady herself."

"Not always. But this is important. Time wasted is time lost."

Rosalie pushed Winnie to the big sofa and sat beside her. "I like Wayne, but I wouldn't dream of marrying him any more than he would dream of asking me."

"He did ask you. He told me about it. You've got to be sensible, Rosalie."

"I am being sensible. I can make quick judgments, too, sometimes. I think you love Wayne and should marry him."

Winnie leaned back laughing. "What a game! Maybe we should cut the cards to see who gets the prize. Wayne would love that."

Winnie stopped laughing and looked at Rosalie seriously. "I get him on the phone will you talk to him?"

"Of course. That is a good idea. I want to tell him how much I like you and how much we have to talk about. I want you to meet my manager, too. It was all Rex doing the miracle that put me on the stage. He even picked out this apartment for me. When you meet him you'll see why I'm a crazy about him. I owe everything to him."

Winnie looked at her steadily. "Are you going to marry him?"

"I might do worse, don't you think?"

"I don't know. I have to see him. The only man named Rex ever met tried to pick me up on a train in California and I had to slap him hard to put him in his place."

Rosalie chortled. "I bet when you slap hard they don't try again in a hurry."

"I'm not sure. This Rex had very fine opinion of himself. Very sleek and dark-lady killer. My father still calls him that."

Rosalie brought over a picture that stood on the piano. "Like this?"

Winnie's eyes opened very wide. "Why, it's—it's—"

"I thought so. He picked me up on the train after I had successfully squeezed my money out of Wayne's father. Did Wayne tell you about Joe who beat him up? Well, I slapped Joe and went into a restaurant to get away from him and there was Rex. He said, 'Doesn't it look like fate?'"

Winnie winked broadly. "I'm from San Francisco. We consider ourselves clever out there. I'm anxious to meet this Rex. It's just possible he might remember me. I wonder what he would say."

"I think he would remember you well enough," Rosalie spoke quietly. "And I know Rex is a saint. But he knows the theatre and he says he can make a star of me. Be sure to tell Wayne that. Or shall I tell him?"

Winnie stood up slowly. "Are you sure you don't want him?"

"As sure as I am that you do want him."

Winnie began to laugh slowly. "Then I won't telephone. I'll use my ticket on the plane tonight after all."

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Henry Iba of Oklahoma A. and M. refused to "bite" the other day when Rhode Island's Frank Keane went into his No. 5 routine for the basketball writers.

That's the talk in which Keane starts by blasting professors and finishes by blasting anyone who tries to slow down his "firehouse" style of basketball. It's good for a lot of laughs that temper Frank's charge that a slow-down "ruins the game." ... Iba, who believes in the slower "control" style, also has another theory. "It helps the game to have different styles," he commented later. "It stirs up a bit of argument and controversy and keeps interest alive. I think that's one trouble with pro basketball and football. They all play the same, so there's nothing to talk about."

Be Alert For Fire Hazard At Christmas

The excitement of the Christmas holidays may cause many persons to overlook common fire hazards, according to a warning issued from State Police Headquarters in Harrisburg.

"In the pre-holiday and Christmas festivities, many fire hazards common to the season may be overlooked in the usual rush of shopping and visiting," said Captain W. F. Traeger, Fire Marshal Bureau of Fire Protection, Pennsylvania State Police.

"There is much last-minute decorating, including the placing of lights and inflammable decorations, which frequently cause tragic and disastrous fires."

The Fire Marshal also pointed out that some Christmas toys may cause fire, particularly those powered by inflammable liquids or manufactured of highly combustible materials. He warned, too, that the practice of leaving Christmas lights burning in unattended buildings may result in heavy fire damage due to the obvious delay in discovering blazes caused by electric circuit overloaded by the decorative lights.

Another common cause of Christmas season fires is failure to dispose properly of inflammable wrapping materials which are quickly discarded after the traditional gift opening.

Carol Festival In Youngsville Monday Night

Youngsville, Dec. 16—Monday evening at eight o'clock is the date and hour set for the annual community carol festival, to be held in the high school auditorium. Harvey Horn, school music supervisor, will lead in the community sing and Treva McKinney will play the piano accompaniment. Each church in the community has been asked to provide one special number for the program and a cordial invitation is extended to old and young to participate in this PTA-sponsored get-together.

The cantata, "Carols of Christmas" by Lorenz will be presented by the choir, under the direction of Miss Lillian Swanson, at Saron Lutheran church Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Those taking solo parts are Catherine Vicander, Patricia Tubbs, Jessie Peterson, Gladys Carlson, William Egges, Kenneth Johnson, Robert Clark and Rev. W. W. Carlson. All are cordially invited to attend.

At its meeting, Youngsville Order of Eastern Star, following the regular session, had a Christmas party. Appropriate refreshments were served from a charmingly decorated table, choir boy figures, candles and winter greens forming a part of the decorations. The committee in charge consisted of Dorothy Stilling, Caroline Peterson, Evelyn Crull, Alice

There's a Tom in the White House

President Truman is a bit startled after his introduction to the "one Tom that got in the White House"—a 40-pound bronze turkey. The bird and a 14-pound live one, snapping in the background, were presented to the chief executive by the presidents of the National Turkey Federation and the Virginia State Turkey Association.

Streeter, Theresa Crull, Naomi Johnson, Mae Johnson, and Louise Zahniser. A candy treat also provided by the worthy matron, Belle Sample.

The Red Circle held a pleasant business dinner and party Tuesday at the parsonage, with Mrs. E. W. Chitester as hostess.

Mrs. Mary Blakeslee is still confined to her bed as the result of a fall in which she suffered broken bones.

Christmas music will be an important part of the Sunday morning service at the Methodist church with Elton Barton conducting the choir and Donald Aberg as special soloist. A violin number is planned also. The evening service for this date is cancelled.

The Methodist Sunday school program of Wednesday evening, December 22, at 7:30, will include a pageant of First Christmas, in which a large number from Sunday will take part. The little people of the Sunday school as well as the older ones will take part in the program. There will be a Christmas tree and candy treat and Santa is expected.

EXCEEDED EXPECTATIONS

Thomas Jefferson was of the opinion that Washington, D. C., might have 100,000 inhabitants at the end of 100 years, and might ultimately attain a maximum population of 200,000. The District's population was listed as 683,092 in the 1940 census.

Dear Santa: Please Bring Me a Man

By CYNTHIA LOWMY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It has certainly never been the intention of this pillar (a synonym for "column") I picked up the other day) to dash people's hopes—and right before Christmas, too.

But I feel it my duty to pass along the bad news with the good. And, sisters, this is indeed bad news.

To wit: bachelors are becoming as scarce as 50-cent blue-plate specials.

The United States Census Bureau, which isn't much influenced by whimsy and straws in the wind, indicates that finding a husband is currently a girl's hardest job.

In 1940, the bureau reports rather starkly, one man out of three who was between the ages gentlemen had their ladies all picked when a small war intervened. Or maybe it means that today's perfumes accomplish the miracles attributed to them.

But how about the legion of ladies who'd like to be wed? With only a handful of bachelors around, some of the sisters are going to be left with futures filled with the traditional cats, canaries and good works.

This is a grim enough prospect. But what effect is this situation going to have on the remaining bachelors, pursued and beset by a raft of women with determined looks in their eyes? It will either frighten them so they'll take to the woods and hermit's caves, or make them completely insufferable, conceited bores. There doesn't seem to be any middle ground.

One hopes, however, that the shortage of marriageable males won't preclude an American adoption of the European dowry system. But with income taxes what they are, this isn't beyond the realm of possibility. One hates to think of romance, American style, degenerating into a marriage of convenience with back street overtones.

Don't despair, however. There's a way to beat statistics: 1. Find the one and only before he turns 20 and eats the gay fruit of bachelorhood. 2. Sit out grimly, and catch him when he emerges, feeble and sort of senile, into the twilight years beyond 45.

LEGION NEWS

Less than nine months before Pearl Harbor the American Legion sent its own mission to Great Britain to study civilian defense functions in modern warfare. The findings of this commission became the groundwork for the first civil defense programs in this country. They led to The American Legion's tremendous contributions on the home defense front during World War II. The American Legion conducted 56 air raid wardens' schools in 31 states. It graduated 7,745 instructors who in turn conducted 13,323 local schools which trained 225,000 wardens. The American Legion paid the bills from its own treasury. Thousands of American Legion posts set up observation posts in a huge aircraft warning service. More than 100,000 Legionnaires served as "spotters" at these posts, which were manned day and night. American Legion posts helped in setting up community defense councils, aided in recruiting men and women for the armed forces and of skilled workers for defense plants. American Legion posts sold billions of dollars worth of war bonds. The Forty and Eight shipyard, 3,793,750 decks of playing cards to American fighting men serving overseas. Through the "Records for Our Fighting Men," The American Legion distributed 2,339,613 phonograph records of latest song hits to overseas units of the armed forces and to hospitals.

Hundreds of Legionnaires served on draft boards throughout the country. More than 75,000 picked Legionnaires cooperated with the FBI in checking sabotage, espionage, age, and in tracking draft evaders. More than 150,000 Legionnaires went back into active military service.

On the wartime legislative front, the American Legion fought on behalf of the nation's fighting men and women by securing enactment of increased army and navy pay, mustering-out pay, and the GI Bill of Rights. Later, it secured legislation for terminal pay leave for all enlisted personnel of the armed forces.

Her Needle and Thread Sew Up 4-H Scholarship

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
Chicago—(NEA)—Ellen McReynolds is a pert young miss who doesn't let a little thing like an obstacle stand in her way.
She wants to design clothes when she grows up. She's 17 now, junior in high school. She lives on a farm in Cleveland, Tenn., and her farm has no electricity.
But Ellen is a determined girl, and, using a pedal sewing machine by the light of oil lamps and dressing with an old-fashioned gasp, she made herself an outfit that won her a trip to Chicago as one of the 12 national winners of the 4-H dress revue.
She was impressed by her feat. "I just wanted to do it, so I just did it," she says.
Her winning costume is a light green, two-piece tailored suit, which looks like something out of Fifth Avenue show window.
Ellen first learned to sew from her mother. Now she's turned the tables and is teaching her mother some of needlework's fine points.
Mother never knew how to put sleeves or lining on such like," says Ellen. "but I learned at the 4-H and now I'm teaching her."
When she was 10 she was making simple things like blouses and dresses. Then she became interested in 4-H, and was taught to make dresses, suits, like the one she won with, and even coats.
She finds putting in the lining of a coat the hardest sewing job she's tackled so far.
Up to now, everything Ellen's made has been done from patterns. But next summer she plans to design, as well as make, something. She's not yet sure what it will be, but probably a suit. She likes suits best of all.
"I want to be a suit designer, eventually," says she, "if I can." Her prize at the 4-H Congress here for her winning outfit was a $200 scholarship. She plans to attend Tennessee Wesleyan University and study designing.
The lack of electricity in her home she shrugs off as no handicap. The only difficulty is that she can't sew much at night, because the lamps don't give enough light. She does most of her work after school, week-ends and in the summer.
"Of course I could sew faster with an electric machine," she says wistfully. "Our old pedal machine is kind of tired, I guess. I've been using it for seven years, and my mother used it for a long time before that."
Besides making all her own clothes now, Ellen makes dresses and suits for her older sister, who is working, and also helps with the wardrobes of a younger brother and sister. And she makes clothes for some of the McReynolds' neighbors, too.
In her seven years of 4-H work,

Sad Visit From St. Nicholas

C. M. Pender, of Summerville, S. C., and Mrs. Pender strive to choke back tears as he plays the role of Santa Claus for his little daughter, Sallie. Sallie, stricken with cancer, is not expected to live until Christmas, so she had her visit from St. Nicholas early, in Charleston hospital.

Ellen estimates that she's made or remade well over $1000 worth of clothes.
She says there is a possibility of the farm being electrified soon.
The professional designers better watch their step then. If Ellen McReynolds can do what she's done without electricity, watch her smoke when she has it.

Report Made On Alcoholism In The State

Harrisburg—(AP)—A legislative committee estimates there are 35,000 alcoholics in Pennsylvania and urged a continuing study of the problem.
The committee said in a report that alcoholism is twice as common in cities as in rural areas. The report added, however, that there had been a decline of 7.8 per cent in Pennsylvania between 1930 and 1944 while there had been an increase of 28 per cent over the entire country in the same period.
The report was prepared by the joint state government commission's sub-committee on alcoholism for submission to the 1949 session of the legislature.
The committee recommended an appropriation to the State Health Department to study state-sponsored rehabilitation programs and their effectiveness.
Other recommendations included—
Encourage all medical and nursing schools to provide instruction in care and treatment of alcoholics.
Rep. Charles H. Brunner, Jr., (R.-Montgomery) chairman of the committee said "It is the consensus of medical opinion that at the present time alcoholism is not curable."
Brunner added however, that "medical opinion generally is agreed that many alcoholics can be rehabilitated by means of the so-called 'short treatment' which requires one week of hospitalization."

TEEN TALK

Shine up those Christmas bells, pick the holly, sweep the chimney and get set to help Santa shake the soot out of his whiskers. Gather up the nicest gals and guys you know and stage a Christmas party.

The best time for this holiday revelry is the night before Christmas when everyone is in that mellow peace-to-all mood. Invite the gang to your house for a tree-trimming party. This is lots of fun, marks the beginning of the Yule season and gets the ornaments on the tree before you can say Donner and Elitzen.

You don't really have to hurry the project. But if there are small fry in the house, you will have to wait until they are safely tucked in bed with "visions of sugar plums" in dreamland.

Sing the carols early. You might do this while wreaths are being hung in the windows or outside the door. Then the lusty voices will not wake sleeping moppets.

If you live in the country and the boys in your crowd are ambitious, perhaps you will not cut the tree down until Christmas eve. The gang can hop in a car or walk to the fir grove, wield the ax, and all help to cart the tree back.

You should have some snacks prepared to serve during the trimming period. Warm spiced cider, or hot chocolate, carrot sticks and crackers and cheese are good to stave off hunger. After the tree is bedecked break out with some food that can be prepared in advance and reheated. Spaghetti, chicken ala king and chile con carne are perfect for this. Chile always is fine food for a party because it is filling and inexpensive. To every can of chile, add an extra can of beans. Serve it with saltine crackers or over spaghetti, for that Southern favorite Chile Mac.

If you plan to use cranberry and popcorn decorations on the tree, why not let the girls string them while the boys get the tree in shape? I like alternating the cranberries and popcorn for a prettier effect.

The crowd may not pair off, and if this is the case, the small present which is brought by each should be put in a grab bag and fished out. Girls can bring something for boys, and boys for girls. These should be inexpensive, perhaps from the dime store. If any of the crowd is especially chummy, their main present should be reserved for Christmas day giving. This way kids who are not on a "big gift" list will not be embarrassed.

Dress up for this occasion if you like. Wear one red and one green sock, small jingle bells in your hair, holly berries on your dress.

Put the mistletoe in a prominent place. Christmas Eve is not an evening for games but you can find plenty of amusement just sitting around the fireplace and waiting for Santa Claus!

F. F. F. Band Will Play At Farm Show

Harrisburg—Topping the appearance of hundreds of Future Farmers in varied activities at the 1949 Pennsylvania Farm show here January 10-14, will be the Pennsylvania Future Farmer 100-piece band, the Farm Show Commission announces.

The band membership represents practically every county in the State. It will participate in the fourth annual Rural Talent Festival at the Farm Show Arena on Tuesday evening, January 11, and will give a concert in the Forum of the Education Building on the following evening.

The boys who compose the Future Farmers of America Band met for the first time during FFA Week at the Pennsylvania State College last June. They will appear at the Farm Show under the direction of James W. Dunlop of the music education department at Penn State. Band members, while in Harrisburg, will be housed in special quarters at the Farm Show Building.

Other FFA activities at the Farm Show include a series of demonstrations on various agricultural practices; erection of seven window exhibits depicting various phases of agricultural education; and the awarding of gold, silver and bronze medals in each of 24 different farm project contests, according to H. C. Fetterolf, chief of agricultural education, State Department of Public Instruction.

Prior to the Farm Show, approximately 170 of the 8,512 Pennsylvania FFA members will be selected to receive the Keystone Farmer degree, highest award given by the organization. The degree will be conferred at the Wednesday evening rally by Mr. Fetterolf, State Adviser of the FFA, assisted by the seven officers of the farm youth organization.
